Address

About 100 members of the committee were present yesterday and when Chairman Henry B. F. MacFarland announced that the subscription list was open, the members announced their contributions with such rapidity that the secretary was forced to request that they go slow.

Following the reading of several names of persons who had sent in donations, Chairman MacFarland called upon the members present, Julius Peyser made the first announcement of a contribution of $500, following which nearly every member announced contributions from $1,000 down to $25. Several stated that their subscriptions would be renewed every year as long as the war should last.
